A recent analysis by the Georgia Budget & Policy Institute shows that dyslexia screenings, if implemented, could help meet newly identified student needs. If mandatory dyslexia screening is passed, it will be imperative that our teacher training programs provide comprehensive training to eradicate the dyslexia myth.

Georgia legislators and policy makers have already taken a number of steps to combat human trafficking and the commercial sexual exploitation of minors. The Georgia Budget & Policy Institute has been deeply involved in this area and has recommended the following:

- The Georgia Grantmakers Alliance Policy Committee has been working on this issue.
- The Governor's Office of Advocacy and Fiscal Transparency has been involved.
- The General Assembly has passed a number of bills to support this effort.

The bill encourages research, it does not specify public reporting or interface systems allow data to more quickly and accurately inform practice, thereby completing a picture of the outcomes resulting from programs and policies. These requirements.
